FAMILY REUNION

Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Campbell Go South to Spend Christmas With Their Sons

Ernest Campbell Comes to Seattle on a Furlough After Having Made Ten Round Trips to France.

H. D. Campbell last Friday morning received a cablegram from New York from his son, Ernest M. Campbell, stating that he had been granted a furlough and was leaving for Seattle, and requesting that his father and mother meet him there. The Princess Mary was in port and Mr. Campbell hurried home in order to leave on her. The 15-minute whistle blew before he reached his home, and he then knew that he must miss the Mary. Mr. and Mrs. Campbell will go south on the Jefferson and will arrive in Seattle five days later than their son.

Leonard Campbell is now at Ft. Worden near Port Townsend, and it will surely be a joyous reunion that the Campbell family will have Christmas.

Ernest and Leonard Campbell left Wrangell on December 7, 1917, for Seattle to enlist. On the occasion of their departure the Wrangell Fire Department gave them a banquet at the Wrangell hotel which was an elaborate affair.

The year that Ernest Campbell has spent in the service of his country has been full of experience. Leaving Seattle on the U. S. Ship Northern Pacific he went through the Panama canal and visited most of the ports on the east coast. He has made ten round trips to France.

The Campbell boys have a host of friends in Wrangell who regret that they could not have spent their Christmas in their home town, but every one rejoices with Mr. and Mrs. Campbell that they are to be privileged to spend Christmas with their two gallant soldier boys of whom they are deservedly proud.

The Campbell family are surely 100 per cent patriotic. The two sons enlisted voluntarily. Mr. Campbell has given much attention to the Home Service work of the Red Cross and has been identified with every local activity of a patriotic nature, while Mrs. Campbell has been one of the most untiring workers in the local chapter of the Red Cross.

Very nearly every paper in Alaska, with the exception of the News, has its own pet poet who effuses whenever there is any excuse. It is said there will be a bounty placed on poets in Alaska at the next session of the legislature.—Douglas Island News.

Less material will be put into men's clothes this year. Any warm weather sufferer should be willing to start by dispensing with collars, cuffs and suspenders.

Nope, you're wrong. A keynote speech isn't for the purpose of throwing the con into the convention, but of putting the thews into the enthusiasm.

If Nicholas were either a warrior or a politician he would be strongly tempted to show the sorrow-stricken Russian people that an ex-czar can come back.

Baseball is becoming popular in England. The British may play the game, but it will take time to acquire the technical vocabulary of an argument with the umpire.

The Kaiser has approved the selection of Prince George of Saxony as king of Lithuania, and whether the Lithuanians approve or not is of no importance whatever.

Jefferson Sailed Tuesday

SEATTLE—The Jefferson sailed at nine Tuesday morning with the following passengers for Wrangell: Joseph Osborn, Ethan Allen, R. Richards, Ernest Koblem, Edward Moran, John Moran, Alfred Anderson, Mrs. J. Kinkela, Rose Kinkela, Viola Kinkela.

SEATTLE—The City of Seattle sailed at 13 Wednesday morning. Wrangell passengers: Elton Barnes, E. H. Mason, F. E. Gingsburg, Cyril Chouquette, Wm. Chouquette, A. Nohobletz, Thomas Dalgren, Fred Amundsen, J. H. Bender.

At Adin, when the news of the armistice having been signed was received, that camp and all the surrounding camps declared a holiday for two whole days and nights.

The Dawson News published a memorial edition this month, giving details of the Sophia wreck and biographies of many of the victims.

The Chilkat Oil company, operating in the Katalla field, is producing 600 barrels of oil per month that is being disposed of at Cordova and other Prince William Sound points.

The Kennecott Copper company has had to store away more than 12,000 tons of copper ore owing to the fact that transportation facilities were not available to take it to the States this fall. The value of the ore is between four and five million dollars.

The Pacific Steamship company has handled 1,600,000 cases of salmon this season, valued at $11,200,000.

There is not a vacant dwelling house at Ketchikan and the local papers are urging citizens to build some. [Some of the young ladies of Wrangell have understood that there is, at least, one vacant dwelling in Ketchikan.]

Six upper grade boys of Whitehorse public school published a public apology there recently for not doing their part in the celebration held in honor of the signing of the armistice.

On account of the uncertainty of economical and political conditions in Siberia this year, few Alaskan miners and trappers have crossed the Bering sea to take minerals and furs from the Asiatic. In other years many Alaskans, most of them from Nome and the Seward peninsula have gone into the Siberian country around the Gulf of Anadir. Nome is about 160 miles from the Siberian coast. Small American trading vessels plying across the Bering straits and along the Siberian coast built up such a big business a few years ago that a movement was started for the establishment of a custom house on the Siberian coast, probably at East Cape. Men who have returned from across the straits say that a second Alaska in riches lies in the eastern Siberian provinces of Kamchatka and Yakutsk.

BRITAIN DAY CELEBRATED

Entire Town Joins in An Enthusiastic Observance

Wrangell celebrated Britain Day Saturday with a whole-hearted enthusiasm that made the occasion one to be remembered. In the business section British flags mingled everywhere with the Stars and Stripes and at noon all stores closed for the balance of the day.

Elaborate arrangements for the evening's entertainment had been made and a large gathering was assembled at Redmen Hall.

A chorus of young ladies consisting of the Misses Irene Coulter, Marjorie Schaffner, Hattie Anderson and Florence Billion with Miss Ruth Lindman at the piano led the singing of the Star Spangled Banner as the opening number. Mayor Matheson who was to preside at the meeting was unable to be present owing to a sudden indisposition and F. E. Bronson took his place.

Mr. Bronson stated that he knew Mr. Matheson's heart was in the celebration and that he must indeed be ill to forego the pleasure of being present. He then read the remarks with which Mr. Matheson would have opened the program of speeches after which he delivered his own address as the first speaker of the evening. He was followed by W. H. Warren, J. W. Pritchett and Rev. Corser. While the various speeches differed in character, all were expressions of friendly good-will toward England, and genuine admiration for her part in the war. That British reserve has prevented much being said of British deeds in connection with the late struggle but that England's men and the men of her colonies were in the fight from the beginning to the end and that we owe an immense debt of gratitude for the protection of England's navy, were facts brought out by the speakers.

Mr. Bronson's address was mainly historical in nature, pointing out England's influence in world events from early times. America's former text-book acquaintance with the mother land and the friendliness which now exists between the two great English-speaking nations were dwelt upon.

Mr. Warren also brought out several historical facts and contrasted the prayer of the Germans, "Gott strafe England!" with the spirit with which the men of Britain went into the war. He emphasized the need of spiritual equipment as well as physical and closed an interesting address with comments upon the beauty of the colors of St. George's cross mingling with the Stars and Stripes.

Rev. Corser quoted Conningsby Dawson, British soldier, who said in a speech in this country that it was not the Americans, nor the French, nor the English who won the war, but the Almighty, showing that men at the front realize most of all the Divine guidance in the struggle.

The fact was presented by Mr. Bronson that the father of George III, under whose rule the American colonies suffered indignities, was born in Hanover and was a German, and Rev. Corser gave the words of the Earl of Chatham when Englishmen were rejoicing at Howe's successes in the Revolutionary war: "You cannot conquer America. If I were an American as I am an Englishman, while a foreign troop was landed in my country, I would never lay down my arms—never."

The success of the evening was due to the efforts of the city council committee. Messrs. Grant, Coulter and Lindman who deserve hearty congratulations for the splendid way in which the entire celebration was conducted.

REDMEN ARE PATRIOTIC

L. M. Churchill, chief of records of Stikine Tribe No. 5, Improved Order of Redmen, this week sent a check for $100 to the Great Council of the United States as a contribution from the local tribe to the Patriotic Fund for disabled Redmen. This fund is to be primarily applied to the emergency aid of members of the Improved Order of Redmen who may be wounded, disabled, incapacitated or otherwise in need thereof by reason of service in the army and navy of the United States or any of its allies in the war; and for the temporary relief of the father, mother, widow or children who are in real need, and were mainly dependent upon Redmen who have died in such service.

From Ocean to Ocean

Impressions of a trip across the United States will be the theme of the discourse at St. Philip's church Sunday evening, December 15. It will give the impressions of two great orators, one by Segard Skyline, a young Australian, and the other by the well known author and writer, Conningsby Dawson. It will have a very important bearing on the Red Cross drive.

Mrs. Johnson sang Kipling's Recessional last Sunday evening and special music by Mrs. McLaughlin has been promised for this service.

The people of Courtney, B. C., hearing that a number of Christmas parcels for Yukon soldiers serving in France were lost in the wreck of the Princess Sophia, wired for the names of the men who were to receive them and have sent packages to all who were on the list. It would have been too late to send duplicate packages from Dawson.

The first Alaskan recruit to return to Alaska since the signing of the armistice is Dr. George F. Freeburger, a dentist of Juneau.

never, never!" It was apparent even at that time that the ministry of England was extremely friendly to the American colonies despite a petty king's tyranny and the sentiment of some of his followers. In closing, Rev. Corser read Oxenham's "In Anticipation."

Following the speakers, Edward Loftus in khaki and carrying a gun, delighted the audience with his soldier song in which his chief trouble seemed to be that he could not get enough sleep. Then George Case appeared as John Bull, carrying aloft the British flag, while the young ladies' chorus sang "Rule Britannia" after which Uncle Sam appeared, in the person of Neil Grant. After another enjoyable song by the chorus, there was a final ensemble of John Bull, Uncle Sam and the American soldier, the chorus furnishing another song. The young people were given unstinted applause for their songs, and deserve great credit for their part in the program.

Immediately after the program the hall was cleared and for several hours a large crowd danced beneath the bunting and British and American flags with which the place had been beautified. A four piece orchestra furnished the music.

In the banquet hall upstairs, prettily arranged tables groaned under a load of good things sent in by the women of Wrangell and here a committee of men saw to it that no one went away hungry.

The success of the evening was due to the efforts of the city council committee. Messrs. Grant, Coulter and Lindman who deserve hearty congratulations for the splendid way in which the entire celebration was conducted.

Mary Jones' House Party

By RICHARD MARKLEY

One morning when I had been to the store and was returning to the farm I met Mary Jones.

"Howdy, Helen," she said. "I've got an idea. I don't see why we country people shouldn't have house parties as well as city folk."

"What's a house party?" I asked.

"Why, a lot of people all go to somebody's house and stay there two or three days or a week or perhaps longer. They play games and dance, and well, they don't do anything but amuse themselves. Father and mother are going over to spend a week with Aunt Jane pretty soon, and I'm going to have a house party. Will you come?"

"I suppose so."

"Jim Cunningham will be one of us." Mary's house party came off, sure enough. We had the house all to ourselves, and there was every reason why we should expect a good time. The first evening we were together we had a candy pulling, and the next morning the auto was brought out, and all went for a ride, except myself. I didn't feel well and concluded to stay at home. At least, this is the reason I gave for not going, but the true reason was that Sarah Flint, one of the girls, had undertaken to appropriate Jim Cunningham to herself, and I didn't like it, because he didn't let her know she couldn't do it.

While they were gone there was a rap of the knocker on the front door. I went there and found a girl who asked for Mary. I told her that Mary had gone on a ride, and she looked very much disappointed. She said she was Mary's cousin and had come all the way from Hanover Court House to see her. I told her to come in and make herself at home. She did so, and I went back to my room.

When I went downstairs again she had gone. The auto party didn't come back till evening, and when they did I failed to get an opportunity to tell Mary about her cousin who had been to see her. We had supper and in the evening danced, I playing the piano for the others. I didn't want to dance with Jim, and I didn't want to refuse him. That's the reason I did the playing.

The next morning a change had come over the house party. Something had gone wrong. Then I noticed that the girls were giving me the cold shoulder. Later on I went to Mary and asked her what was the matter. She said that while they were gone on the ride the day before somebody had taken things from their rooms. I saw right away what it meant. I was the only one left to do the stealing, so I was the thief.

It was very stupid of me not to think of Mary's cousin, but I was so broken up by what had occurred that I was incapable of anything for a while.

It was plain that Sarah Flint was doing all she could to fix the theft on me. I, supposing that she was turning Jim against me, didn't give him a chance to show his faith in and sympathy for me, but just turned away from him every time he approached me. I suppose this made him mad, for he kept making up to Sarah, and when he passed me he held his nose in the air.

The evening after the day of the theft I said to Mary:

"I forgot to tell you that your cousin came to see you all the way from Hanover Court House when you were out motoring."

"My cousin! I haven't any cousin at Hanover Court House."

Then I told her how the girl had gone away without saying that she was going or leaving any message.

"Why didn't you tell me that before?" said Mary. "The girl was the thief, of course."

"I never thought of that," I replied. Mary went right away to the others and told about the girl who had pretended to be her cousin and who had had the run of the house as long as she wanted to. Of course this put a new face on the affair, and they came to me, all except Sarah Flint, and asked my pardon for suspecting me of theft, though some of them said they hadn't thought I was guilty at all. But I knew better.

Jim watched for his opportunity to speak to me, and I purposely went off by myself to give him a chance. When he came to me he seemed not to know what to say.

"Why have you treated me so shabbily?" he asked.

"I have simply treated you as you deserve. When I was wrongfully accused, instead of standing by me you sided with my bitterest enemy."

"I tried to tell you that I believed you innocent, but you wouldn't give me a chance."

"Not while you were listening to the poison of that snake."

"I was trying to get away from her, but you threw me back to her."

"If I threw you back I certainly didn't throw you back to her. You went to her of your own accord."

"And you won't make up?" he said ruefully.

"Any man who is engaged to a girl and won't stand by her when she is accused—at least till she is proved guilty—is no man for me."

He went away very much crestfallen. Soon after this interview I saw Sarah trying to coddle him. He listened to her till she had come to a stopping point, then turned and walked away from her. I noticed that he didn't join her again while we were at Mary Jones'.

Finally I forgave him.

OFFICIAL RECORD OF GAME KILLED IN THE CASSIAR DISTRICT FOR YEAR 1918

[The Sentinel is indebted to J. Frank Callbreath of Telegraph Creek for the following list of the game killed in the Cassiar district the past season. The measurements were copied from the records of the provincial game warden. Wrangell being the northern starting point for the greatest big game region on the American continent, our readers will doubtless find the report most interesting.]

BORROWED FROM THE SEA.

Familiar Expressions That Had Their Origin Aboard Ship.

A great many people use slang terms and expressions without knowing their real meaning or their origin.

Ninety-nine people out of every hundred, when their health is good, say they are "first rate." Why? "First rate" is a seafaring term and was originally used in the classification of the old wooden line of battleships.

"Sailing under false colors"—a term applied to a person who pretends to be other than he is—a survival of the same period.

This latter expression, like "to throw overboard"—to get rid of something—is obviously nautical. But few people know that "sky-scaper" was originally sailors' slang.

"Close quarters" is another very common expression. This, like "first rate" and its accompanying expressions, "second rate," "third rate" and so on, comes from the days of wooden fighting ships. The "quarters" were protections erected along the bulwarks, behind which sailors could lie low and which were used to help repel boarders.

"To sail against the wind"—to be very much in the minority—and "to lower your sail"—to confess your self conquered—are both terms borrowed from the sea, and the same may be said of "high and dry" and "laid up" and "spliced," the slang term for getting married.

When we talk of a person being "knocked into a cocked hat" we mean that he was limp enough to be doubled up and carried under the arm like the cocked hat of a naval officer. And we say that so and so will be "on the rocks" if he does not "steer clear" of the money lenders.—Milwaukee Free Press.

The Knots Couldn't Hold It.

It is related of the Rev. John Eliot, commonly called "the apostle of the Indians" in the seventeenth century, that he would give to the red men the most of his annual salary of £50 as soon as he received it. On one occasion the parish treasurer put the money into a handkerchief and tied it into as many hard knots as possible, to prevent the great preacher from giving it away before he reached home. Calling soon after on a family suffering from illness and want, the famous dominie told them that God had sent them relief, and began to untie the handkerchief, but becoming impatient he handed it to the mother, saying: "Take it, my dear. I believe the Lord designed it all for you."

When Bunyan Went to Jail.

The bill of indictment preferred against John Bunyan, who wrote "Pilgrim's Progress," ran thus: "John Bunyan hath devilishly and perniciously abstained from coming to church to hear divine service and is a common upholder of several unlawful meetings and conventicles to the disturbance and distraction of the good subjects of this kingdom, contrary to the laws of our sovereign lord the king." He was convicted and imprisoned twelve years and six months.

Pleasant Thoughts.

"The greatest art in life is to have as many pleasant thoughts as possible," is a wise saying, which does not in the least mean that such thoughts can be manufactured dreamily out of one's mind. To have pleasant thoughts habitually means that a man must live in kind, pure, unselfish relations with those about him; that he must have true and high ideals; that all his acts must be kind and right. If you have not these pleasant thoughts, acquire them.

Postgraduate Course.

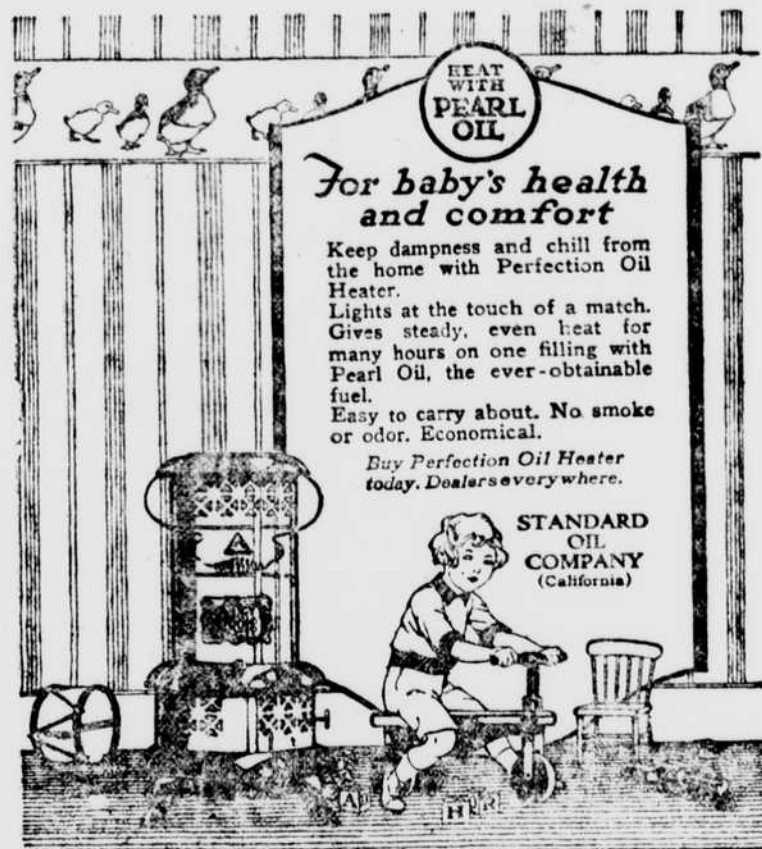

Pretty Daughter — Now that I have graduated, mamma, don't you think I ought to take a postgraduate course? Practical Mother—Certainly, my dear. I have arranged a complete and thorough course for you in roastology, bakeology, darnology, sewology, patchology, washology, ironology and general domesticology. Run along now and get on your working harness.—Chicago News.

Didn't Have to Ask.

Brown was in a terrible hurry to be at his club. He had been patiently sitting for a considerable time, and then, getting exasperated, he poked the conductor in the ribs with his umbrella, saying, "Hi, conductor, is this bus going on?" "No, sir," replied the conductor; "it is standing perfectly still."—London Telegraph.

Making Friends.

Blessed are they who have the gift of making friends, for it is one of God's best gifts. It involves many things, but above all the power of going out of oneself and seeing and appreciating whatever is noble and loving in another.—Thomas Hughes.

Do You Believe In God? Then Outwardly Manifest It by Going to Church.

IT is not enough for one to say that he lives a righteous life and that he believes in a Supreme Being. He must give OUTWARD MANIFESTATION of that belief.

There is only one way that a man can give OUTWARD MANIFESTATION of his belief in and love of God, and that is by GOING TO CHURCH. The church is the home of God. He reigns there. On great feast days like Easter, Thanksgiving, Christmas and New Year's the churches are filled to overflowing. People GO TO CHURCH to honor God and thank him for his blessings. Don't wait for these feast days to GO TO CHURCH and then stay away from church for the remainder of the year. EVERY SUNDAY is a feast day of the church.

AS A RESULT OF THE COUNTRY WIDE GO TO CHURCH MOVEMENT THERE HAS BEEN A SPLENDID INCREASED ATTENDANCE IN THE CHURCHES. BUT THERE ARE MANY WHO HAVE BEEN DEAF TO THE CALL. IF YOU ARE ONE OF THESE, MAKE UP YOUR MIND TO GO TO CHURCH NEXT SUNDAY. TELL YOUR WIFE OF YOUR RESOLUTION, AND NOTE THE PLEASSED LOOK ON HER FACE. TELL YOUR CHILDREN, AND IT WILL MAKE AN IMPRESSION ON THEM FOR LIFE. A PARENT CAN ILL AFFORD TO ASK HIS CHILDREN TO GO TO CHURCH AND REMAIN AWAY FROM DIVINE SERVICE HIMSELF.

Going to church DOESN'T REQUIRE ANY GREAT SACRIFICE. The services are at a seasonable hour. They are not long. You surely MEET THE RIGHT KIND OF PEOPLE there. The sermons invariably are INSTRUCTIVE AND UPLIFTING. Try going to church next Sunday. See if you don't feel better for it. It will help you to overcome the temptations of the world. You'll hesitate before you do a wrong act. Sin brings its punishment; righteousness its reward. If you want to earn the reward of righteousness and avoid the punishment of sin, be a regular church attendant.

START NEXT SUNDAY TO BE A CONSISTENT CHURCHGOER.

RED CROSS

Big Drive Begins Next Monday and Continues Until Dec. 23

The big Red Cross drive which will be known as the Red Cross Christmas Roll Call begins next Monday and continues till Dec. 23. Chairman Benjamin this morning appointed J. G. Grant chairman of the drive. Further announcement concerning the drive will be made later.

Red Cross Work in Belgium

Relief work by the American Red Cross in Belgium necessitated an expenditure of $1,432,374 for the ten months ending June 30. This amount was to provide comforts and medical assistance for Belgian soldiers, 90,000 residents of that part of the little country outside the German lines and the 600,000 Belgian refugees scattered through France, England, Holland and Switzerland.

The sum of $1,947,325 has been appropriated to continue this work during the last six months of this year. Thus by the end of this year the Red Cross will—since the war began—have appropriated for use among the Belgians the sum of $3,379,799. These are the outstanding facts in the current section of the War Council's report relative to the use being made of the Red Cross war fund.

The establishment of 82 canteens which provide daily refreshments for 25,000 soldiers, the financial assistance given to nine hospitals that are combatting disease among the civilian population and refugee colonies, the construction and support of a barracks which shelters 400 children and the maintenance of a home for disabled Belgian soldiers are a few of the things the Red Cross has done for the courageous little kingdom and its people.

About 15,000 Belgian children in the countries mentioned are healthier and happier as a result of day nurseries established by the organization.

Cooperation between the Red Cross and the Belgian government has been so effective that this aid has been distributed largely through the medium of Belgian agencies. A donation of one million francs to the Queen for the support of the hospital service and another of half a million francs to insure the completion of a large hospital were among the first expenditures of the Red Cross in Belgium.

The organization has established what is known as the Queen's purse, a fund of five thousand francs, which is distributed among the country's war victims. As free Belgium is within easy range of German guns and bombs, hospitals in that territory have been destroyed from time to time increasing the cost of relief work.

Everett Elks Spring a New Plan for Christmas Cheer

The Elks' Lodge of Everett, Washington, has turned over to the Everett chapter of the Red Cross five hundred dollars to be used for extending Christmas cheer to some of the destitute children of northern France and Belgium.

Back of this lies a story. This year, in addition to having the annual Christmas tree at the Elks' Club for the needy children of the city and vicinity, the lodge decided that it would, at a different time on the same day, give all the other children of Everett an opportunity to put something on the tree for the less fortunate youngsters in SEATTLE—A. H. D. Klie, chief herring expert of the Bureau of Fisheries has been in Seattle several days. Mr. Klie sent the following telegram to the Bureau of Fisheries:

Between ten and twelve thousand barrels of Norwegian cured herring lie in Seattle unsold with no buyers showing interest at any price. Some have been offered at as low as ten dollars, but remain unsold. Scotch cured practically sold with average demand, sales averaging $17 to $23 per Scotch barrel, according to size and cure. The heaviest demand is for large fish, but the price may ease a little as large herring now arrive in eastern market from Newfoundland coming in direct competition with large Alaska fish."
